The Veto of the Imagination: A Theory of Autobiography*

Louis A. Renza

In an autobiography one cannot avoid writing "often" where truth would require that "once" be written. For one always remains conscious that the word "once" explodes that darkness on which the memory draws; and though it is not altogether spared by the word "often," either, it is at least preserved in the opinion of the writer, and he is carried across parts which perhaps never existed at all in his life but serve him as a substitute for those which his memory can no longer even guess at.--Franz Kafka

I say "memory" and I recognize what I mean by it; but where do I recognize it except in my memory itself? Can memory itself be present to itself by means of its image rather than by its reality?

--St. Augustine

I did begin [my autobiography] but the resolve melted away and disappeared in a week and I threw my beginning away. Since then, about every three or four years I have made other beginnings and thrown them away.
--Mark Twain

There is no set pattern for writing an autobiography as the story can take any form as long as it is written expressively and informative. In this article, we will discuss the short autobiography format that you can follow to get your story out into the world. Autobiography Format for Students There are many types of autobiography that you can choose for writing about yourself. Let’s take a look at the most common autobiography formats that can help you get started. Traditional Autobiography It covers the person’s life from birth to the present time. Memoir This format of autobiography focuses on certain moments or themes in a person’s life, such as philosophical, historical, religious, etc. The main difference between autobiography vs memoir is that autobiography is about a real person’s life. But a memoir shares a writer’s personal memory. Personal Narratives It is more narrow form of writing than a memoir. Simply put, it is just an essay about yourself. As a rule of thumb, it focuses on one moment at a time and expands the experience through dialogues. This is the most common type of assignment in high school and colleges. Vignettes These are short chapters that cover one specific event at a time. It focuses on a brief description, account, or episode. A collection of vignettes can be published as a complete piece of work. However, each chapter in the collection does not necessarily relate to the other. Graphic Novels A unique genre in which drawings and cartoon panels are used to convey a true story. Drama or Scripts This is a form in which one can explore autobiographical topics through dialogues in film or on a stage. Remember, the most accepted autobiography format is chronological. Components of an Autobiography Format Writing an autobiography is an easy task if you plan ahead and have a format outline in hand. Here is a proper autobiography format for elementary students and above.
1. Title Write the title of your work at the top of your page in bold font. Remember, you can come back and change your title at any time. You might come up with the perfect title at the end of the writing process.
2. Dedication Write about the person to whom you would like to dedicate your work. Better leave this part until last, as working through your autobiography will trigger many memories. So you might dedicate your work to more than one person.
3. Table of Contents Once you are done with the writing, compile your table of contents as it will help the readers to easily navigate.
4. Acknowledgments This is the section where you need to thank everyone who has helped you in composing your autobiography from start to end. Show your gratitude and appreciation in a few beautiful and inspirational lines.
5. Foreword Here you need to jot down all the reasons for writing the autobiography. Discuss the purpose of writing it and what you want to achieve from it. A good approach is to include brief thoughts in this section, as it will help you stay focused throughout the writing process.
6. Introduction Write an attention-grabbing introduction to pique your readers’ interest from the start and keep them reading until the end. This part should be clear, concise and to the point.
7. Body Section Create a series of headings and subheadings in your autobiography format outline. Write your autobiography based on locations and events. Link all the information in an interesting story format. Include relevant material under each section, such as dates, experiences, etc.
8. Conclusion Present your final thoughts in the end. Look back on your work and think about what you have learned from the experience and how it has changed you. Tie up all the information in an interesting manner for a perfect ending.
9. Memorabilia To highlight some special moments, include some memorabilia such as pictures, medals, letters, etc.
10. Index Once finished writing, compile the index to help the readers locate the information in the autobiography. The above format is simple and easy to use, but the actual writing process can be a real challenge. So better spend hours of time brainstorming your ideas and memories in detail before getting started. Paper Due? Why suffer? That’s our job! Click here to learn more.
